

Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles

Stanley Mosk Courthouse, Family Law Division, Chambers of Shelley Kaufman
111 North Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012

This letter is for people with family law cases in my court. This may be a difficult and confusing time for you. You may disagree with the other person in your case about support, how to divide property, or where your children will live. Our court offers resources and information that can help make this time less stressful for you. Here are some:

LACourt.org – Our website has information and resources that can help you

- Know what to expect at court and your hearing.
- Learn about options that are less stressful, quicker, and less expensive than a court hearing, and
- Get language help if you need a free interpreter or a disability accommodation for your hearing.

If you need a free interpreter or an accommodation because of a disability, please send us your request at least 10 work days before your hearing. If we cannot find an interpreter for your hearing date, we will reschedule your hearing. Fill out your request at: www.lacourt.org/irud/ui/index.aspx?ct=FL

Online Dispute Resolution (ODR)

- The ODR program is available to parents to assist in negotiating custody and visitation arrangements and creating a 'parenting plan agreement'.
- Go to <https://losangelescafam.modria.com/> to get started.
- If you are able to resolve all child custody and visitation issues, you will not be required to attend an in-person mediation appointment at the courthouse.
- The program is free at this time.

Mediation for faster, less stressful, less expensive solutions

- If you have child custody issues and file for a Request for Order, mediation is mandatory. In Family Court Services, the mediator is a mental health professional experienced in helping parents focus on solutions and develop a parenting plan.
- If you come to court, the judge may refer you to lawyer assisted mediation.
- If you prefer to resolve your issues outside the court system, you may choose to go to a private mediator. These mediators can be lawyers or mental health professionals who will assist you with alternative solutions that can be faster, easier, and less expensive than going to court. You have the right to a court hearing and to have your case decided by a judge. But many parties, especially if they have children, find it much less stressful to solve all or part/s of their case outside of court. A mediator can explain and explore your options.

Should you get a lawyer?

There are several ways to get legal advice and legal information, including:

- Hire a family law attorney for all or key parts of your case. Many lawyers offer “unbundled” or limited scope representation. This means they will help you with the most difficult parts of your case.
- Go to workshops at the court’s self-help center to learn how to handle your case yourself. Learn more: www.lacourt.org/selfhelp/selfhelp.aspx
- Get help from a legal services agency or other non-profit organization. www.lacourt.org/selfhelp/divorce/separation/SH_DS001.aspx
